

<https://www.departures.com/lifestyle/wine-spirits/best-red-wine-this-year>

Wine & Spirits

The Best Red Wines to Drink This Year

CarlosAndreSantos/Getty Images

From Cabernet Sauvignon to Malbec to red blends, these are the reds we're excited about for 2021.

By Jonah Flicker on January 04, 2021

Each product we feature has been independently selected and reviewed by our editorial team. If you make a purchase using the links included, we may earn commission.

We are all ready for 2020 to end by now, a year that has been challenging in ways we could not have imagined. Many of us are looking to the new year to bring some hope and relief that has been so elusive over the past 12 months. If a glass of red wine sounds like it might be what you need right about now, you're in luck as there is plenty to choose from, hailing from all of the best regions of the world—California, Italy, Chile, Spain, and France, among others. Red wine is especially coveted during these cold winter months, the perfect pairing for rich, hearty food like stew, meat, cheese, and roasted vegetables. Here are 15 fantastic red wines that you should consider drinking this winter, and all year long.

2016 Brion Oakville Cabernet Sauvignon

Courtesy BRION

This single vineyard 100% cabernet sauvignon from Brion comes from Napa's Oakville Ranch vineyard. A long finish is preceded by big, ripe berries, mingled chocolate and vanilla, and bright flashes of citrus. This winery is a relatively new endeavor making bold moves early on.

To buy: $225, bwisevineyards.com